

Special Issue | Call for Papers

Thoracic Anaesthesia and Respiratory Physiology

The British Journal of Anaesthesia is pleased to announce a special issue on thoracic anaesthesia and respiratory physiology to coincide with ACTACC 2021 (www.actacc.org/actacc-annual-scientific-meeting-glasgow-2021), to be held in Glasgow, Scotland on 17-18 November 2021.

The deadline for submissions is now 1 January 2022 with anticipated publication in 2022.

Papers can be embargoed for presentation at the meeting if desired, but will otherwise be published electronically ahead of print, with final publication as a special section in a 2022 issue of the Journal.

Please submit manuscripts for peer review, including original clinical and laboratory research, review articles, editorials and correspondence to mc.manuscriptcentral.com/bja, indicating in your cover letter that the submission is for the Thoracic Anaesthesia and Respiratory Physiology Special Issue. We will also publish the top abstracts from the ACTACC annual scientific meeting.

Please address any queries to bja@med.cornell.edu.